A Dead Lock.
Pittsburg Bulletin.

In a Western town the other day two funeral processions met in a narrow street, and the driver of each hearse refused to give way, resulting in a blockade which lasted for hours. Meanwhile the somewhat hilarious mourners passed the time in songs. The names of the songs are not given, but nothing could have been more appropriate than "If a Body Meet a Body."

THE HERO OF PLEVNA.

Drowned With Five Hundred Sailors at Sea.

A TURKISH SHIP GOES TO THE BOTTOM.

Osman Pasha Ends His Life in Ignominious Fashion—Drowned Like a Rat in an Old Tub.

LONDON, September 19.—Advices from Hiogo state that the Turkish man-of-war Ertogroul foundered at sea and 500 of her crew were drowned.

The Ertogroul was a wooden frigate of 2331 tons, and mounted twenty-one guns of small calibre. She was built in 1863. Osman Pasha and Ali Pasha, Envoys of the Sultan to the Emperor of Japan, are among the drowned.

Osman Pasha, whose victory over the Russians at Plevna, gave him high rank as a fighting general, had been on an official visit to Japan, having been entrusted with a special mission from the Sultan to the Mikado. The progress of the Ertogroul since she left Constantinople for the East, many months ago, has been most ludicrous. Leaving Turkey short of money, it was understood supplies were to be sent her to the ports at which she was to coal with the result that her sojourn in those countries was indefinitely postponed, as the officers at home were unable to keep their promises. In this way she lost some of her crew, and her officers were many times on the verge of rebellion, induced by starvation, while the Governors of cities visited, refused to remit harbor dues and grant other privileges of right due her as a Turkish man-of-war, on the grounds she was sailing in that character. There was not powder enough on board to enable her crew to fire regulation salutes. After many adventures only worthy of opera bouffe the Ertogroul finally arrived in Japanese waters. She was on her return voyage when the disaster occurred.

Advices from Hiogo state that the mail steamer Musahi Maru was lost off Cocohi and all her crew, with the exception of one Japanese, were drowned.

SAN FRANCISCO, September 19.—In the habeas corpus proceedings in the case of James H. Barry, editor of the Star, Judge Van Reynegom, this morning, rendered an opinion and made an order discharging the editor. Barry was sentenced for contempt of court to be confined in the County Jail, and pay a fine of $500 and five days' imprisonment. The Supreme Court had ruled that the code nowhere provides for imprisonment and fine coupled with imprisonment until the fine be paid after the expiration of the fixed term of imprisonment. Judge Van Reynegom says there was nothing to be done but discharge the prisoner.

Munsey's Weekly.

"Now, sir," asked the prosecuting attorney, "were you ever in prison?"

"Yes, sir, I have been," answered the witness in a low tone.

"Ah, I thought so, sir. You are a pretty fellow. Jail bird! How long ago has it been?"

"It was during the war. I served six months in Andersonville and Libby while you were up North here writing magazine articles on how to end the conflict," answered the witness in the same low, meek tone.

The Finest Cars.

In speaking to a Stockton reporter about the cars, now building at the Shippee Works, for the Oakland and Berkeley Rapid Transit Company, Superintendent Elliott said: "These cars will be the finest on the coast. They will be finished in mahogany, with beveled edged French plate glass windows, and will be ornamented in our very best style.

OUT FOR THE STUFF.

Talks With Men Who Are In and Out of Politics.

DEMOCRATS WORKING JUDGE GIBSON.

Ex-Mayor Charles D. Pierce Will Not Be a Candidate For Any Office—A Rousing Markham Reception.

The movement in favor of a non-partisan Independent ticket seems to have gained a few followers during the past two days. The Times is backing the measure—a very natural course, as whatever success the movement may gain will redound to the benefit of the Democratic party.

Judge Gibson still seems inclined to "yield to the demands of his friends," and to allow his name to go before the people on a so-called "Independent" ticket, but many of his friends think he is too old a politician and has received too many favors at the hands of the Republican party to desert it at this time. If, however, he should allow his fingers to be used to pull Democratic chestnuts out of the political fire, his probable associate on the ticket will be Judge A. M. Rosborough, of Highland Park, who tried for the place once before on the Democratic ticket, and who was a judge in Trinity county.

The following petition has been sent to Judges Gibson and Rosborough, after being diligently circulated by hard-working Democrats.

OAKLAND, September 18, 1890.

To Hon. E. M. Gibson and Hon. A. M. Rosborough—GENTLEMEN: The undersigned citizens of Alameda county, irrespective of partisan political considerations, recognizing the long and able judicial experience of each of you, respectfully request that you consent to become a candidate at the election about to ensue, for Superior Judge of this county. Inspired with the belief that the Judiciary should be absolutely non-partisan, and as far removed as possible from every influence calculated to bind it to any particular class of the community, we respectfully request that you gentlemen will take this view of the situation and consent to accept our suffrages for the above positions.

Very respectfully,

It is rumored that Judge Gibson will consent to run for the office only in the event of the petition receiving the signatures of forty Republicans and forty Democrats.

Yesterday A. L. Frick, a prominent Republican lawyer, who was a delegate to the late County Covention and a supporter there of Judge Gibson, said: "I am somewhat sorry for Judge Gibson, but still I do not think he has any cause to kick over the party traces. The Republicans of this county and the city of Oakland have done much for him. He has been elected District Attorney; has received the nomination for Mayor; has been supported by his party in an effort to become Railroad Commissioner, and has been given one term upon the Superior Bench defeating in the convention which nominated him, a man who was dearer to the people of Alameda county than any judicial officer we have ever had, and a blind man too—I mean Judge A. M. Crane. Judge Gibson has no mortgage upon the office. He was fairly defeated in the convention, and neither he nor his Grand Army comrades have any cause to bolt from the Republican party."

HURRAH FOR MARKHAM!

All the Arrangements Perfected for a Rousing Reception.

The members of the Republican Alliance are making thorough preparations for their part in the reception of Colonel H. H. Markham tomorrow night. They have sent a general invitation to the patriotic Republican ladies of the city to appear at Germania Hall on Saturday as soon after noon as possible for the purpose of assisting in the proper decoration of the place. The ladies are requested to bring as many flowers and greens as they can spare from their gardens.

The statement published in the Examiner that the County Central Committee had neglected to make any arrangements for the reception to Colonel Markham and Mr. Reddick was, of course, a falsehood. The committee is doing everything in its power to make the reception a memorable success.

At a meeting of the County Central Committee an Executive Committee, consisting of Temporary Chairman, E. C. Chapman, W. H. Church, and H. L. Adams, was appointed to confer with the Alliance Club, and to co-operate with them in the Markham celebration.

At the meeting of the Alliance, last evening, it was decided to have a committee of three from the Alliance, three from the Army and Navy League, and one from each of the other uniformed clubs of the city to act as a Reception Committee, and to look after the welfare of visiting citizens at the Hotel Crellin, on Saturday, from 3 to 6 P. M., while Messrs. Markham and Reddick are receiving the people of the county.

The reception and dining rooms at the Crellin will be handsomely decorated for the occasion.

The Republican County Central Committee will be escorted by the Alliance at the evening's parade. The distinguished guests will appear in a carriage drawn by four white horses, and will be escorted by the military procession up Washington street to Fourteenth; to Broadway; to Eighth, and thence to Germania Hall.

At the hall, the meeting will be presided over by President L. L. Bromwell of the Oakland Alliance.

The following Vice-Presidents will appear upon the platform:

GELDER WAS INNOCENT.

Affidavits That He Did Not Import Scab Nailers.

The following affidavits have been prepared to help the candidacy of John Gelder for the Assembly in the Fifty-fourth district:

OAKLAND, Cal., September 18, 1890.

During the session of the Republican County Convention, held at Germania Hall on September 16, 1890, a rumor was circulated, started as we understand by J. Poorman of Oakland Point, to the effect that John Gelder, at present candidate for the Assembly from the Fifty-fourth district, went East some three or four years ago, during the strike of the nailers at the Pacific Iron Works, at the instance of the proprietors of said works, to procure mechanics to take the place of said strikers, and that he, the said Poorman, was kept out of employment for several months, and finally lost his position permanently through the action of said Gelder.

We, the undersigned, desire to state that we are the men referred to as having been at that time employed as nailers to work for the Pacific Iron Works, where we are still employed, having come from the East for that purpose, and that Mr. Gelder had nothing whatever to do with our employment, either directly or indirectly, and we believe this rumor was only started for the purpose of injuring Mr. Gelder in the eyes of the working classes, for the rights of which he has always been an advocate.

(Signed) BAXTER BOOTH, Superintendent.
H. H. SQUIRE,
G. W. COOK,
WILLIAM LOWREY,
ALEX MCKINLEY.

OAKLAND, September 19, 1890.

To whom it may concern: I do certify that Mr. John Gelder had nothing at all to do with bringing nailers out here from the East to take nailers' jobs in the Pacific Nail Works.

MATTHEW ALTMEYER, Foreman.

THE SENATORIAL STRUGGLE.

The Fight in the Sixteenth District Still Unsettled.

The struggle for the nomination in the Sixteenth Senatorial district is still attracting much attention. M. D. Hyde has a mortgage on the eleven votes of the Sixth ward, while Eli S. Dennison is just as strongly backed by the twenty-four votes of the Fourth ward. The problem is—how will the First ward delegation vote. With their forty-one votes they can dictate terms to the convention.

It is said that Hyde will throw his strength to Dennison in the event of a third candidate being pushed into the fight.

Supervisor Pelouse has been asked to enter the contest, but will refuse to do so unless petitioned by at least forty-six of the delegates—that number being necessary for a choice in the convention.

Both Hyde and Dennison are said to be anxious lest Pelouse should throw his influence with the First ward delegation towards one or the other of them and thus complicate the fight even worse than at present.

Of the two candidates for the Assembly in the Fifty-fourth district, John Gelder, of Lorin, and C. S. Culver, of the First ward, Mr. Culver's chances are thought to be the best, as it is believed that the First ward will be unwilling to let the nomination go outside the ward.

SENATOR STANFORD'S PLANS.

He Is Expected to Return in Time for the Coming Campaign.

Senator Stanford is in Paris, having just returned from a trip through Russia. He is much improved in health, and looks forward to active, legislative life during the next session of Congress. Although nothing definite is known of his plans, it is thought that he will return to California in time to take part in the coming campaign.

The Senator has been in constant communication with the Finance Committee of the Senate, and has also secured a promise from the Conference Committee that particular portions of the Tariff bill, in which California is interested, especially the free wine and spirit amendment, will be attended to.

Mrs. Stanford has purchased some rare paintings for the art gallery at the Palo Alto University.

It is generally understood that, on the return of the Senator, arrangements for the visit of President Harrison and his Cabinet to this coast next year, will be made.

NOBLETT FOR SHERIFF.

Councilman Kirk Will Not Accept a Nomination for Tax Collector.

Robert Noblett says that he is in the fight for the Democratic nomination for Sheriff. He says he has been talking about the matter with his friends for the past two months, and has finally decided to enter the contest, although he fully realizes that he will have an up hill-fight against the large Republican majority in this city. Mr. Noblett believes that he is popular among Democrats and that he would make a good run if nominated by his party.

O. C. Kirk expressed some surprise when told that his name was mentioned in connection with the Democratic nomination for Tax Collector. He said, "I cannot become a candidate for that or any other office at this time, for both political and business reasons. My time is pretty well taken up as tax collector in my large business. That is the only tax collectorship I care to bother myself with at present."

NOT A CANDIDATE.

Charles D. Pierce Will Not Accept a Nomination for Any Office.

Ex-Mayor Charles D. Pierce, in response to an inquiry as to his possible candidacy for the office of Sheriff of Alameda county, said: "My answer is very short. No. I am not a candidate."

"Would you consent to run for the Assembly if the nomination were tendered you?" was the next question.

"No," said Mr. Pierce, "I would not. My friends seem to think I have an itch for office. They have offered me almost everything on the list, but I do not want anything and have refused all their offers."

WOULDN'T TALK.

J. J. White Will Not Be Interviewed Upon His Supposed Candidacy.

J. J. White declined to say anything today regarding his rumored aspirations to the Democratic nomination for Sheriff. He thought it entirely too early in the campaign to worry about such matters. "You see," he said, "on our side there is no particular contest. It is merely a question of who will consent to go into an uphill fight."

Political Pointers.

J. G. McCall, agent in San Francisco for the New York Lake Erie and Western railroad, is said by his friends to be the "solid man" for the Republican nomination for the Assembly in the Fourth and Sixth wards. James Adams and A. Wielander are the other candidates.

Mayor Glascock will address a Democratic mass meeting at Napa on Saturday evening.

Miss Dixon, a teacher well known in Oakland, has been nominated by the Democrats of Napa for School Superintendent. Miss Dixon hails from St. Helena, where she went to school with the Hon. H. P. McPike, John Heath and others who have since become residents of this city. She attended the State Normal School at San Jose for a time, where, it will be remembered, she sued one of the professors for libel.

It is said by members of the Seventh ward delegation that the nomination of T. N. Macain for Justice of the Peace instead of E. G. Matthews, partner and brother-in-law of James Larue, took against Hon. F. W. Henshaw in the recent struggle in that ward. It is charged that Larue indulged in unwarrantable and personal attacks upon Judge Henshaw, and that Judge Matthews did nothing to restrain him from such a course. Hence the result.

Two Seventh warders are working for the support of the ward's delegation, with the view to securing deputyships in the Sheriff's office in the probable event of Captain Hussey's election. They are Messrs. Macey and Calberg.

McCleverty Will Not Run.

Ex-Sheriff Charles McCleverty says that under no consideration will he enter the contest for the Democratic nomination for Sheriff against his partner, Mr. Noblett.

A First Ward Caucus.

The First ward will caucus on Monday morning on the Senatorial proposition. Denison will probably be given the ward's vote.

The New Committee.

The new Republican County Central Committee will meet this evening at Piedmont Hall on Washington street, between Eighth and Ninth streets.

THE FATAL TOADSTOOL.

A Young Alameda Lady Dies After Eating Supposed Mushrooms.

Annual Encampment of the Advent Christian Conference at Schuetzen Park—Many Would-be Justices.

ALAMEDA, September 19, 1890.

Captain W. F. Chipman, of the Military Club, has appointed George Burkhart Secretary and M. E. Goggin Treasurer.

Diphtheria continues to claim victims in this city. The latest is the two-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Couro, residing on Central avenue.

C. A. Edson, who has been drawn on the Grand Jury from Alameda, is no longer a resident of this city, but is managing the Klamath Hot Springs, in Siskiyou county.

A. Franks, a Park street saloon keeper, was arrested this morning for battery, on complaint of Jesse Winant. The latter alleges that he went into Franks's saloon to get a glass of beer and that Franks forcibly ejected him.

A saloon is to occupy the store in which J. A. Leonard's real estate office is located, corner of Park street and Santa Clara avenue. It will be conducted by Mr. McGinness. Mr. Leonard will move his real estate office, October 1st, to the new Boehmer Block.

The death of Miss Augusta Hinchman is attributed to eating mushrooms, or what were supposed to be such. She was an estimable young lady, and her loss is lamented by many. Her funeral took place this afternoon from Christ Episcopal Church.

There is a big crop of candidates for Justice of the Peace this campaign. The regular Republican nominees are W. P. Byler and G. A. Swasey, while William Holtz and G. E. Colwell will undoubtedly be the Democratic nominees. In addition to these, C. F. Carlson and George Wolfe of the West End will run as independent candidates. Wolfe says that a delegate promised to place him in nomination at the Republican convention, but, for some reason, failed. He wants the office, and says he has enough friends in Alameda to elect him.

The annual encampment of the Advent Christian Conference commenced last evening at Schuetzen Park, and will continue until the 20th inst. It is under the direction of a State Committee consisting of H. F. Carpenter, of Santa Clara, George W. Place, of Santa Cruz, E. E. Priest, of Oakland, V. F. Hunt, Tustin, Orange county; and W. R. Young, of Antioch. Services are held in a tent 50x75 feet, capable of seating 500 persons. Elder Miles Grant, of Boston, Mass., and Elder George W. Sederquist, of Lynn, Mass., take the most prominent parts in the services. Mr. Carpenter, in conversation with a reporter yesterday, said: "We are known as the Advent Christian Association, and are not connected in any way with the Seventh Day Adventists. We observe Sunday as the Sabbath Day, and believe in experimental and practical holiness as the only fitness for the Lord's second coming, which we expect now, but do not believe in any definite time. We believe the soul of man is mortal, and can become immortal only through Jesus Christ." This encampment is expected to be the largest ever held on this coast, and the gathering resembles one large family. There is a restaurant on the grounds, at which the campers board, and no regular rates are charged, but each person is expected to contribute toward the expenses. There was a good attendance at the opening services last evening. A feature of the encampment is a chart, 60x7 feet, prepared by Elder Grant, illustrating the history of the world and the prophecies of the Bible.

TWO CONCERTS.

Miss Wall's Oakland Debut and the Plymouth Church Organ.

Many tickets have been sold for the grand concert to be given at the Plymouth avenue Church this evening by the famous choir of the First Congregational Church of San Francisco. The proceeds are to be devoted to making up the shortage in the fund for the purchase of the big organ, which the energy of Mrs. W. C. Little secured for the church. A very entertaining programme has been prepared and a large audience composed of friends of music and the church is assured. The tickets are $1 each.

Arizona Joe's combination changes the programme at the Oakland Theater this evening and will stage Wild Violets, another sensational drama of the Richardson type.

Nearly the whole of the main floor of the First Presbyterian Church is reserved for Miss Wall's testimonial concert tonight. It will be the first general marshaling of the society clans of this season. The church has been tastefully decorated, and the concert will be a brilliant and altogether pleasing affair.

Lectures by Mrs. Poston.

Mrs. E. C. Poston will give a series of lectures on "European Cities," at Mrs. Goodfellow's, 1353 Webster street, Tuesday afternoons, at 3:30 o'clock, beginning September 23d.

A Sewer Assessment.

The assessment for the sewer on Third street, from Chestnut to Adeline streets, was completed this morning. The cost is $358 95, a rate of 52 cents per front foot.

Cincinnati uses 4,500,000 lamp chimneys every year.

THE ADVENTISTS.

Increasing Interest Taken in the Conference.

DOZENS OF NEW FACES ARE TO BE SEEN.

An Interesting Sermon by Elder Healey. Meeting of the Tract and Missionary Society.

Yesterday afternoon and today, several parties from the interior of the State arrived at the camp ground of the Seventh Day Adventists, and indications are for a much larger attendance than that of last year. The conference has got down to routine work now and all the meetings and assemblies are largely attended. One of the interesting and profitable exercises of the camp is the daily meetings for the children under 14 years old. These meetings are conducted by Mrs. J. F. Waggoner of this city, and Mrs. J. F. Caldwell of Healdsburg.

The sermon preached by Elder Wm. Healey last night, in the large pavilion, to a good audience, is favorably mentioned by all who heard it. His subject was "Prophecies of the Coming of Christ," his text was taken from 2 Peter, i. 16-19: "We have a more sure word of prophecy; whereunto ye do well that ye take heed, as unto a light that shineth in a dark place, until the day dawns and the day star arise in your hearts."

The speaker said: All the prophecies of the Bible have either been fulfilled, are fulfilling, or are yet to be fulfilled. Not one has failed or can fail. The great prophecies of the Bible nearly all end with the setting up of God's eternal kingdom at the second coming of Christ. Can we learn in regard to the time of the setting up of God's kingdom?

The thief comes when he is not expected. When Christ comes there will be two classes of professed Christians on earth: One will be overtaken as by a thief in the night; the others are not surprised, but will be looking for his coming according to prophecy, and thus escape being overtaken as a thief.

In the Lord's great prophecy, recorded in Matt. 24, we have a definite statement concerning the time of this important event. In verse 3 the disciples ask Christ for the time of the destruction of Jerusalem and for the time and signs of his second coming. In verses 4-14 he gives a cursory view of the world's history from that time to the second advent; verses 15-20, give the destruction of Jerusalem; verses 21-28 give general signs of the event; verses 29-30 give special signs that were to precede the second coming, which were the darkening of the sun and the falling of the stars. The former of these events took place in 1780, and the latter in 1833. Following these verses, the Saviour called attention to the leafing of fig trees as a sure sign of coming summer, then said, verse 33, "So likewise ye, when ye shall see all these things, (signs above mentioned) know that it is near, even at the door. (34) Verily I say unto you, this generation shall not pass until all these things be fulfilled."

We are living where God is ripening up the harvest. Soon the Lord will make his appearance. Verse 14 says, "This gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations; and then shall the end come." This message will soon close. That religious legislation would come before the end is certain from Rev. thirteenth chapter. For more than forty years Bible students have preached that it is coming. Legislation now being sought proves that they understood the prophecies correctly. The State will soon be fully prepared to enforce religious dogmas. The image of the beast will soon be formed. All these things may serve to the devout believing Bible student as waymarks to indicate the near approach of the Lord's second coming. We can thus "see the day approaching." The world holds out to us a time of sorrow, but at the end a glorious reward.

The only fault found with Daniel was his fidelity to the law of his God. Let it be so with us. May we so live that the only fault the enemies of truth can find with us is on account of fidelity to the spirit, as well as to the letter of the law of God.

One of the most important business meeting yet held at the camp ground was that of the California Tract and Missionary Society, which was called to order, this morning, by Elder J. N. Loughborough, at 9:30 o'clock. It is through this society that the Adventists do their "Religious Liberty" work in which more than a dozen men have been engaged during a part or the whole of last year. The extensive colporting work of the denomination, also, is carried on by means of this society. Not less than sixty-nine men and women have been engaged in canvassing for denominational books and periodicals in this conference. More than 153,000 petitioners have prayed the United States Congress not to change the present relation existing between the federal government and religion, largely by the work of this society.

The Tract and Missionary Society works in harmony with the National Religious Liberty Association, by which R. M. King of Tennessee was assisted in his defense when he was fined by one of the courts of that State for conscientious scruples concerning the observance of a weekly rest day.

The committees appointed by the chair, to report at a future meeting, were as follows:

Nominating Committee—Elder E. J. Waggoner, William Saunders, and Professor H. F. Courte.

Committee on Resolutions—Elder M. C. Wilcox, Elder M. C. McClure, and Elder O. C. Godsmark.

After a brief report of the society for the past year by the President, the meeting was adjourned to the call of the chair.

This evening there will be a sermon by Elder M. C. Wilcox, who will preach on the subject, "The Signs of the Times."

Tomorrow is their Sabbath day and the programme will be: 9 A. M., Sabbath School; 11 A. M., services in the pavilion; 2:30 P. M., services; 4:30 P. M., youths' and children's meeting; 7:45 P. M., preaching.

Two Cows Enough.

The Ordinance and Judiciary Committee of the Council, last night, amended the ordinance regulating the keeping of cows by striking out all the exceptions. As it reads now not more than two cows can be kept on one block by any one person or corporation.

Sweeping the Macadam.

The proposition to sweep the macadamized streets of the city still hangs fire, the reason being that the Board of Public Works finds that the dust cannot be disposed of at a figure that will nearly equal the cost of the sweeping.

No Register Where They Sleep.

John Kane and D. H. McDonald, who were found by the police sleeping in box cars, were each sentenced to five days' imprisonment by Judge Ogden this morning.

A Charge of Insanity.

Complaint was made at the police station this morning against Charles Flynn of West Oakland, who is described as giving evidences of insanity.

Flynn was found and arrested this afternoon and sent to the County Jail.

THE SAME OLD WAR.

Ticket Agents Are Again Accused of Cutting Railroad Rates.

The Southern Pacific's New Order Which Is Worse Than the Stubbs Agreement of April Last.

Yesterday all the ticket agents of Eastern railroads in San Francisco and Oakland received a communication from T. H. Goodman, General Passenger and Ticket Agent of the Southern Pacific Company, notifying them that on and after the 18th is stant ticket agents of the Southern Pacific Company would not be permitted to sell other agents tickets of the Southern Pacific except when they covered passage over the railroads represented by the resident agent, who calls for the ticket, whether in person or by one of his employes. In other words, representatives of Eastern roads will not be allowed to buy tickets of Southern Pacific issue for delivery to passengers if they do not cover passage over the road represented by the agent. The communication continues:

It is sought by this order to check (in a measure at least) the practices which have resulted so frequently in the cutting of our published ticket rates.

We have, therefore, to give notice that if you or your employes cause or attempt to cause an evasion of this order, and satisfactory proof thereof is offered, we shall immediately inform the superior officers of the guilty party of the facts of the case, and shall notify such superior officers that on a repetition of the offense we shall not thereafter recognize you in any way as an agent or employe of their company, and that we will at once recall the special tickets or passes we may have furnished you or your subordinates on their account. We shall do likewise upon satisfactory proof that you or one of your employes has directly or indirectly sold, or caused or procured another person to directly or indirectly sell a passenger a ticket of our issue at less than our regular tariff rates.

From the foregoing you will recognize the fact that you will be held accountable for the actions of your employes.

This is the same old row that occurs regularly at periods of two or three months, and is simply another scheme to prevent the paying of big commissions and the cutting of rates. Many of the agents of Eastern lines, if cut off from commissions, would be forced to retire from business; and not a few of them unite in saying this new rule will not hold water. The agreement has been entered into by the Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Texas Pacific and Denver and Rio Grande. The present order, however, has a big hole in it in the shape of the Santa Fe, which refuses to join in. The latter road is the only one of the Eastern roads that runs its cars into Oakland, and, of course, with them the Southern Pacific has no dealing in the way of selling tickets, and the new order will only tend to divert a few tickets into the Santa Fe's pockets. In this manner some of the other transcontinental lines will likely weaken, and then, as it always does, the trouble will commence all over again.

Yesterday the agents all met at Fourth and Townsend streets with Mr. Goodman. He informed them of the object of the gathering and explained that it was pretty well understood that the way in which commissions were being handled amounted practically to rate cutting. There was reason to believe that part of the commission often reached the passenger—a direct violation of the Inter-State Commerce Act. The matter was discussed and all the agents agreed faithfully to live up to the Southern Pacific's last order. They all appeared horrified to think that a fellow agent would be so bad as to cut rates, but got uneasy when the Stubbs' agreement of April last was referred to. Still, the order or compact or agreement of any kind that a railroad ticket agent cannot dodge around or crawl under never was drafted and probably never will be.

STUCK TO HIS WEED.

How an Anxious Wife Got Fooled by the Physician.

New York Tribune.

The sick man had sent for a doctor, much against his will; but his wife had insisted on it, and so he gave way.

The doctor came and looked grave. He felt the patient's pulse, inspected his tongue, listened to his heart, and then sat down in silence to think awhile, looking oracularly wise through his spectacles.

The first thing he said was: "Do you use cigarettes?"

"There!" exclaimed his wife. "I always told you so, John Henry. Oh, why will you smoke those hurtful things! You see the harm they have done you is perceptible to the doctor at once. Oh, doctor, you will forbid him to use them any more, will you not? I'm so glad we called you in."

"Well, you see, doctor," replied the patient, somewhat rattled at this onslaught of his wife, and ready to throw something at the doctor's head, and just as ready to punch his own for allowing himself to be badgered into calling in a physician at all; "I only use them sparingly. A couple of boxes a day, at the outside, and I'm sure I don't use nearly as much as I seem to do, for I only half smoke them, taking a pull or two and then laying the cigarette down on my desk and forgetting it many times till it is almost consumed."

"Oh, you smokers always have some way of deceiving your friends and even of blinding yourselves to your own excesses," broke in his wife. "The doctor will know best, I am sure, and you will not be foolish enough to go contrary to the advice of a physician on that point. I am so glad we called you in, doctor!"

"Nonsense, Jane," said the patient rather sharply. "How you do jump at conclusions. The doctor has not had a chance to say a word about my condition yet. You don't think, doctor, that I have the tobacco heart, do you?" he added anxiously.

"No," said the doctor.

"There, Jane!" said the sick man, triumphantly.

"Tobacco heart, indeed!" replied the wife. "You may not have gone so far as that yet. There are plenty of lesser, but still serious complaints, that your constant habit of smoking cigarettes has brought upon you; else why did the doctor at once ask if you used them? Why did you do so, doctor?"

"Yes, why?" chimed in the patient, anxiously.

"Well," replied the doctor, who had been smiling quietly behind his glasses all the time, watching the uncorking of this little family jar, "I only asked because I smelt tobacco smoke in the room, and wanted to borrow a cigarette for myself."

"Hurrah for iniquity!" howled the sick man in his glee, and he and the doctor sat down and talked and smoked and smoked and talked for almost an hour; while the chagrined wife made up her mind that henceforth women doctors should minister to that family.

He Disliked the Weed.

Exchange.

Some delightful stories are being told of Cardinal Newman. One in particular, of his antipathy to smoking, illustrates admirably the great simplicity of his character. A gentleman in a railway carriage once asked him if he objected to smoking. "Not in the least," said the Cardinal, "only I shall shortly be very sick if you do."

He Fooled the Doctor.

New York Herald.

"You were wrong about my son, doctor. You said drink would kill him."

"And how have I been proved wrong?"

"He's been hanged," returned the proud mother, triumphantly.

A Wide-Felt Want.

I've got a new tile, of the latest spring style;
It's glossy, it's sleek, and all that;
It is ever so swell, and goes excellent well
With my better half's new Easter hat;
But comfort and ease I'll take if you please,
Beneath my own fig tree and vine,
And worry along, with my pipe and a song,
And that slouchy old
felt of mine.

That new spring tile of elegant style
Is hard and as heavy as lead;
It weightens me down, and, like the king's crown,
Uneasiness brings to the head.
It makes a demand for a glove on the hand,
With dress of the mode, and quite fine,
A dignified air and a quantum of care
Unknown
to that slouch
hat of mine.

There's trouble enough, and the road is full rough,
The easiest way we may go
The journey of life, its care and its strife,
Its trials, and burdens, and woe;
So, just as you please, I'll gather what ease
May lie in a goblet of wine,
My pipe and the song, which fairly belong,
With that
felt of mine.

The youthful King of Spain one day recently was served for lunch with the breast of a chicken cut into small pieces. He at once began to help himself without the aid of either spoon or fork. "Sire," said his attendant gravely, "kings never eat with their fingers." "This King does," responded His Majesty, continuing his meal.

WAR OF THE ROSES.

Tales of Two Troubled Lives Told in Letters.

DID MOLLIE HARRIS MARRY MONEY?

Henry Wetherbee of Fruit Vale Sued for $25,000—Kanzler Pursued by a Woman Who Tries to Marry Him.

No man was, probably, ever more surprised than Alfred Warner Rose when he learned that his wife, Rebecca J. Rose, had sued him for a divorce, in the Superior Court of this county, on the grounds of desertion and failure to provide. For some months he has been separated from his wife, being at work in the country, while she remained in Oakland. So, when he was served with a summons in the suit he was not only surprised but grieved to find that during his absence his wife's love for him had turned cold and, perhaps, was bestowed upon another. He acted as his own attorney in the case, and filed a voluminous answer, wherein he recited numerous letters written to him by his wife during his absence. The answer came too late, however, as his default had been entered, and the testimony in the case was taken before the Court Commissioner. That official has made his report to the court, and the case is now pending for decision.

The first letter recited would indicate that the fickle Rebecca occasionally takes an interest in spiritualism. It reads:

Warner, my love: I received your letter and hasten to reply. I still stay with Mrs. Symonds according to your wish. I have not been well lately and not since I had that old doctor here I met no acquaintances on my trip to the city last night. I don't know anything new concerning the Spiritualists here and I suppose you get the news in the Golden Gate. My love is still centered in you as constant as the stars above and as pure as the morning dew.

It is enough, though hid the cause may be,
If I love you and you love me.

I fear my letters are not interesting like yours are to me. I must make a cup of tea now, so good-bye.

P. S.—I have those terrible spasms of the heart constantly for two or three days at a time and they make me feel weak. If I should die without ever seeing you always remember I love you dearly. J. R.

The next letter shows that at the time it was written the fair Rebecca was lonely and wanted to nestle in somebody's arms. She also went to a Spiritualist fair and enjoyed herself. This is the confidential gossip between a husband and a wife.

MY DEAR HUSBAND: I have said to myself every night for a week that I will write to Warner, but something has prevented me. I attended the Spiritualists' fairs and I believe they were quite a success. I wish I could nestle up in your arms tonight and feel that I had some one to love. It is near the midnight hour, my dear, and I must close. Wishing you the best of success and happiness, I remain affectionately, JOSIE.

The next letter which follows shows that Josie has been very cruel to her husband and she begs for forgiveness. Evidently they have had a big fight, and the fair but fickle wife wants to make up again. She writes:

DEAR WARNER: What can I say to you for my cruel treatment. Could I sue for pardon on my knees I would do so, but I feel and know that I have sinned beyond pardon, and I most certainly deserve it. The last kiss you gave me made me break down, and I should have rushed after you but for the contempt for me I saw in your face. I lied to you when I said I did not intend to go up and see you. How can I live the remaining years of my life without seeing you sometimes. I do not expect you to take me back to your heart. I have always felt that you did not love me, although you tried to. I have struggled along and tried to be a virtuous woman. If I recover from this sick spell I do not care how soon I go to the back. Oh, that I could give you 1000 kisses for the last one you gave me. Oh, do not say that I cannot see you. Whatever I do and wherever I go you will always be the first in my heart, you who has been my all and all. May the good angels watch over you is the prayer of JOSIE.

This last letter seemed to settle the business, and brought about a reconciliation. Warner came back to his wife, forgave her for her cruel treatment, and looked to a bright future. Again the couple were happy, but it was for but a short time. The husband being of a jealous disposition, found plenty to worry him. The next letter which appears in the answer is a wild, weird one, written by the husband to his wife, in which he relates to her a terrible dream he had, wherein her fidelity to him was questioned. In a most dramatic and forcible style he relates how, in his dream, he wandered down to Oakland, dropped into his wife's room, and found her in the company of a gentleman. He passed through a terrible night of agony, and when the awakening came he was suspicious that all was not right with his wife. He begs her to tell him that it was but a dream.

Jealousy still pursued the husband, for learned that the woman of his heart was keeping company with a man named Banks, who hails from Benicia. Then he wrote her this, his last letter.

Dear Josie—Yesterday I saw you near Broadway as I went up, and when I returned I was told that you receive the attentions of another person. I could not trust myself to meet you, so I hurried away from the horrible place as fast as possible. Oh, tell me, darling, it is not true. WARNER.

In concluding his answer the husband makes a violent attack upon the character of his wife, asserting that before he married her she was worse than a fickle woman and is not fit to be the wife of any man. Not content with assaulting the character of his wife, he pays his respects to her sister by asserting that at one time she was the proprietress of one of the gilded palaces of sin in Chicago.

From all of which it appears that in the case of Alfred Warner Rose marriage was a failure.

HENRY WETHERBEE SUED.

An ex-Employe Seeks to Recover $25,000 Damages.

Henry Wetherbee of Fruit Vale owns a large sawmill in Mendocino county. He had in his employ Jacob Smith, who was a night watchman at the mill, and also attended to the duties of clearing the floors at night-time. On the second floor was a large hole around which was a railing. One night Smith went to work as usual, and failed to notice that the railing had been removed from around the hole. He stepped into it, and fell a distance of fifteen feet, sustaining a severe fracture of one of his arms. He now claims that the accident was due to the carelessness of the men in Wetherbee's employ. That is why today he brought suit in the Superior Court of this county against Wetherbee to recover $25,150 damages.

MARRIED OR SINGLE.

That's What Dr. W. Kanzler Is Trying to Find Out.

A young man, well dressed, with rosy cheeks and laughing eyes, who answers to the name of Dr. W. Kanzler, called at the County Clerk's office yesterday afternoon to ascertain whether a license had been issued in this county within the past two years authorizing his marriage with Alice Frances Emptage, a young lady of 20 years, who resides in this city. The doctor stated that he finds himself in a very embarrassing position. Miss Emptage calls herself Mrs. W. Kanzler, and asserts that she is the wife of the Doctor, having been married to him about two years ago. For more than a year she has pursued him, claiming his love and declaring herself his bride, and in proof of her statement she produces a license authorizing her marriage with Dr. Kanzler.

The young man conducts a vapor bath establishment in San Francisco and says his place has been haunted by the lady who calls him husband. So he wanted to ascertain whether he is really a married or a single man. To his own mind he is satisfied that he is a single man, having no recollection of marrying Miss Emptage, but he finds it very difficult to impress the fact upon the minds of his lady friends that he is not a married man in the face of the marriage license which is always shown to them by the lady.

The records were searched, and it was found that about two years ago a license was issued for the marriage of W. de Kanzler, aged 24, resident of Oakland, and Alice Francis Emptage, aged 18 years, also a resident of Oakland. The affidavit was signed and sworn to by W. Kauzler. This revelation astounded the doctor, and he at once pronounced the signature a forgery. He could not account for the "de" in his name, but was satisfied that he is the man meant in the license, because Miss Emptage is the woman who claims him for a husband.

Pursuing the investigation, the doctor, accompanied by a lady, called on Recorder Church to ascertain whether the license had been recorded. He was informed that no such license had been placed on record. The doctor tried to impress upon the lady that he is still a single man. She suggested, however, that he might have been married and the license not recorded. So the doctor is still in a quandary about the matter.

A WOMAN'S CURIOSITY.

She Wants to Know About a Young Lady Who Married a Rich, Old Man.

County Recorder Church has received a peculiar letter from a lady in the East, wherein she seeks information which cannot be given by that gentleman. Mr. Church is not in the detective business, nor does he keep track of young women who marry rich, old men. The letter reads as follows:

CORNING, Iowa, August, 1890.

Recorder: Please pardon a stranger for writing. I want to ask some questions, and if you will answer I will never name you to any one and wish you to keep this to yourself. I am trying to get track of a Mollie L. Harris, tall, dark hair and eyes, 32 years old. Report is that she has married an old, rich man, and I want to know his name, and if he has any folks there and their names. I heard that her oldest brother, Charlie Harris, was there, blue eyes, dark, curly hair. Are his wife and children there? Report that his second wife has left him. He used to be a barber. If you know of them please tell, and there will be no trouble. I will tell more next time.

MARY B. HARRIS,
Corning, Adams county, Iowa.

She is Married Now.

At the request of the Union Savings Bank a marriage certificate has been recorded, showing that Wellington Horace French, a resident of Auburn, and Charlotte Anne Evoy of Oakland were married at San Jose on June 14, 1889. The officials at the bank state that they know nothing as to whether it was a secret marriage or not. Mrs. French aquired real estate under her maiden name and she now desires to mortgage it to the bank. In order to show the title is now in Mrs. French it was necessary to record the license in this county.

Proud of His Father.

Henry F. C. Behrens, who resides at 1380 Tenth street, called at the County Clerk's office, today, and registered. Nye came along and said he is proud to have a brother 87 years of age, who is still ploughing.

This morning Captain Edward Hackett and Colonel Robert McKillican dropped into court to see how Simpson was getting along.

Two Notable Volumes Recently From the Press.

STORIES FROM NORSE MYTHOLOGY.

In Love's Domains"—A Somewhat Warm Tinted Tale of Passion—For Mr. Wanamaker's Official Perusal.

"The Nine Worlds: Stories from Norse Mythology;" by Mary E. Litchfield, Boston, U. S. A., and London; Ginn & Company, publishers 1890.

This beautifully-written little volume gives the reader a very clear, and fairly complete, idea of that weirdest and (in some respects) grandest of all the Pagan mythologies—the Scandinavian. In a series of "myths" the writer gives, not only in outline, but with many of the most characteristic and striking details, a sketch of the Norse idea of the scheme of the Universe, and pen-portraits of the gods who constituted the court of the "All-Father," Odin, and of his Minister of War, Asa-Thor, the Lord of the Thunder, and wielder of the terrible hammer, Miollnir, as well as of the abode of the dead and the place of eternal punishment. The latter are described in language that is all the more powerful because of its stern simplicity.

There is doubtless much of diablerie and of what we, in our greater enlightenment, term superstition, interwoven with the weft of the stories of high achievement and heroic adventure. Giants and slaves, witches and magicians, make frequent entrances and exits on the scene, but not more frequent than seems necessary to give the requisite roundness to the legend, and to throw into bolder relief the heroic qualities of the dwellers in Asgard, the heaven of Odin, Thor and Baldwin the Beautiful. To be sure, all that is told comes under the general designation of "myths," and, in the eyes of some, would be regarded as on the same level with fairy tales; but it is to be remembered that all that is told was implicity believed for hundreds of years by the bravest race in Europe, the Viking Rovers of the Sea; and, even so recently as the Eleventh century, there were to be found thousands of men and women in the Scandinavian Peninsula who held firmly by the faith of Odin. Hence, as Carlyle says: "That form of Paganism must always be interesting to us, as the creed of our fathers, the men whose blood still runs in our veins, whom, doubtless, we still resemble in so many ways. * * * Unconsciously, and combined with higher things, it is in us yet, that old faith withal. To know it consciously brings us into closer and clearer relations with the past—with our own possessions in the past."

The thoughtful reader will, moreover, find much that is both beautiful and true in these myths, many points of striking similarity to the noblest doctrines in the teaching of the Nazarene, and will be constrained to admit that the worshippers of Odin, savage warriors though they were, and much given to shedding the blood of their enemies with a reckless disregard of human life, and to pouring down gigantic libations of mead and beer to celebrate their victories in their Valhalla, came a good deal nearer the simple and true solution of the great problem of life than did many who accounted themselves wiser and more cultured. As a matter of fact, Odin, Thor, and the other so-called "gods" of the Norsemen were neither more nor less than heroes deified, as Ossian and Fingal were (though in a less degree) among the Celtic inhabitants of the Scottish Highlands. They did not take the place, or preclude the idea of the existence of a Supreme Being, nor of a future state of perfect bliss to which these very "gods" themselves hoped to attain, after a period of probation and after "much tribulation" with their enemies Loki (the Principle of Evil) and the giants and magicians, who symbolized their spiritual enemies. Hear what Odin says, when predicting the coming of "Ragnarok, the Twilight of the Gods":

"Then shall come the Mighty One to judgment—He whom we dare not name, the powerful One from above, who rules over all. He shall dooms pronounce, and strifes allay, and holy peace establish, which shall be forevermore. I see a hall with gold bedecked, brighter than the sun, standing in the high heavens. There shall the righteous dwell forevermore in peace and happiness."

This passage, and the description of the terrible battle with the powers of Evil, which precedes it, in Odin's address to the other gods—a battle which is an exact parallel, both as to the combatants and the terrible carnage, to the battle of Armageddon—bears a resemblance to the closing scenes described in the Apocalyptic vision of the Exile of Patmos which cannot fail to strike the intelligent reader as surely something more than a fortuitous coincidence. And after having made the comparison, and having taken into account the nobility and purity of thought which is the inner characteristic of this so-called Pagan religion, "dare we not to the fancy give" that, in spite of what we are pleased to call their ignorance, the heathen worshippers of of Odin and Thor, as well as others who, like them, "dwelt in darkness," were enabled to touch, however slightly and diffidently, the hem of the garment of Truth, and draw therefrom healing virtue for their salvation? Who shall say no?

Miss Litchfield has done good service, to those of the reading public who have not made this most interesting branch of study a specialty in compiling this little volume from the larger and more elaborate treatises on the subject; and I most heartily recommend it to those who have not attempted, hitherto, to learn something of these wonderful hero-gods, of whose deeds of daring and words of wisdom the sagas of the Norseland are almost wholly composed.

"In Love's Domains." A Trilogy, by Marah Ellis Ryan, Author of Merze, etc.; Chicago and New York; Rand, McNally & Co., Publishers, 1890.

This is a very peculiar book. That it is clever, in a way, there is no room to question. The style is easy and natural. The situations cannot be said to be strained, though often strongly dramatic, nor are they inconsistent with the experience of anyone who has taken the trouble to study human nature in its actual, though sometimes seemingly eccentric, phases of emotion and action. The characters, too, especially those of the last story of the trilogy, are powerfully drawn, and even the inconsistencies which are developed between the lofty thoughts and the deliberately immoral action of, at least, one of the characters are redeemed from the charge of improbability by the preliminary explanation of the manner in which that character was left to run wild in girlhood and youth without any of the wholesome restriction and instruction which are so essential to the building-up of pure and self-reliant womanhood.

The plan on which the book is constructed, if not altogether original, is at least novel and not wanting in ingenuity. A publisher proposes to three men of letters, a Poet, a Professor, and a Bohemian, to write a story apiece; agreeing, if the results should be found suitable, to pay for and publish them. The writers performed their tasks, and the stories are here given under the general title of "In Love's Domains," it having been made a proviso that they should, all three of them, have love in some form or other for their theme.

The poet's story, "The Lady of the Garden," deals with the love a woman whose affection not only remains true to her husband, who has lain "in the graveyard on the hill for eighteen years," but treasures, for his sake, the very flowers which he planted and cherished in the little garden before the cottage, to which he had brought her as a bride. The story of that faithful love is told in simple and exquisitely beautiful language to an actor and actress, who happened to pass the cottage in an aimless stroll, undertaken to while away the time they had to wait between trains at an obscure country junction. The story is not a story so much as a poem, and a very beautiful poem it is.

About the most that can be said for the Professor's "Romaunt," is that it is perfectly in keeping with the character of the dry-as-dust scientist who is supposed to write it and that it describes a passion as far removed from the romantic as could well be conceived. It is simply the chemical analysis, by a scientist, of the ashes of a dead affection, which had never attained to the stature of a passion, and which was incinerated, not by its own fires, but by the natural decay, or rather dry rot, of disappointed calculations.

In sharp contrast to the "Romaunt," is the Bohemian's story entitled "Galeed." The hero is a literary man who had attained some distinction in his profession; and the heroine is an artist who had, at the instance of his publishers, illustrated some of his works. Dale Allison, the former, had been, it is naively admitted, rather a loose man in his morals, so far as the other sex was concerned; but he had steadied down somewhat, latterly, and engaged himself to be married to a "Girl of the Period," who, though well aware of his previous liaisons, did not mind them in the least, especially as she liked a little latitude in the same direction herself.

At Oyster Bay, Long Island, where Allison is spending his vacation, he meets the heroine, who is named Mrs. Holmes, and ultimately recognizes her, as she does him. Unfortunately, his recognition of her comes through his finding some paper which she dropped after catching (and sketching) him in a somewhat compromising position with a rather free-and-easy young lady, whose favors, the author is so candid as to inform us, Allison had formerly enjoyed. This awkward incident naturally causes a coolness between the pair which lasts quite a while, and which is only dissipated by the frank confession, on the part of the culprit, that he had been a very "naughty boy," but had resolved to become pure and noble for no other purpose than that he might be deemed worthy of being admitted to the inestimable privilege of becoming Mrs Holmes's very platonic admirer and friend. It is not necessary to follow the gradations by which this Platonic affection merged into the other thing. A boated pair, caught in a storm, in a pathless wood; a fall on the part of the lady, resulting in a sprained ankle; strong arms raising a helpless form breast-high; a fair head drooping on a broad shoulder; an electric thrill through the cardiac region of both; a kiss passionately taken and passively given; an intense, soulful look into each other's eyes—and the mischief was done.

It was an awkward situation. He was engaged. She was married. True, she had never loved her husband and had long been parted from him; but he was still, in the eye of the law, her spouse; and that kiss, which had been so eagerly taken and not so very unwillingly given, was his property. True, Allison's fiancee, Blanche Athol, was far away; but she held him still, in the bonds of honor, as her property by betrothal. Consequently, next morning, after the storm, they had some sharpish qualms of conscience, or thought they had, and made mutual resolutions "not to do so any more."

It would not be fair to either the author or the publishers to follow, even in a cursory way, the chain of circumstances by which Allison got "the cold shake" from Blanche, and straight way rushed to seek consolation in the arms of Mrs. Holmes. Nor would it be right to rehearse the arguments by which he induced her to "fly with him" to "a lovely old town in South Carolina," to live with him as if they were wedded. Suffice it to say that, as Mrs. Holmes had previously, in conversation, emphatically endorsed Mrs. Mona Caird's now famous thesis that "Marriage is a failure," and had stoutly defended the unwedded life (to give it no harsher name) of Mary Ann Evans with Lewis, it may be presumed that it was no very difficult task to persuade her to take the step he urged. In that lovely old town "near to the piney woods of the Peedee," a baby daughter was born to them. (they named her Galeed,) and with her birth, the sin and shame of her life with Allison first broke upon Mrs. Holmes. Happily the child died, and the pair parted, both convinced, that, if marriage be a failure, unwedded commerce has its social disadvantages which are not without their weight and consequences in this possibly artificial, but decidedly commonsensical and practical world in which we live.

The moral, if moral it be, that is thus reached, is undoubtedly a good and a sound one; but I am free to own that I find, in the story, so many specious arguments advanced, especially by Mrs. Holmes, in favor of the contrary and laxer view of the subject, that I should hesitate about allowing a daughter of mine—until at least she was fifty or over, (when probably I should not be present to prevent her) to take the book in her hands, still less read it.

Perhaps no local disease has puzzled and baffled the medical profession more than nasal catarrh. While not immediately fatal, it is among the most distressing and disgusting ills the flesh is heir to, and the records show very few or no cases of radical cure of chronic catarrh by any of the multitude of modes of treatment until the introduction of Ely's Cream Balm a few years ago. The success of this preparation has been most gratifying and surprising.

ATHENIANS MEET.

The Members in Favor of Securing New Club Rooms.

The members of the Athenian Club held a meeting last night for the purpose of discussing the proposition to secure new quarters. The committee appointed to investigate the proposition made by W. J. Dingee to give the club the rooms in the Park Building (formerly Tivoli) on Fourteenth street, reported on the matter, but made no recommendation. It was suggested that it would cost $5000 to furnish new clubrooms and the expenses of the club would be doubled each month. It was the general feeling, however, that the club has outgrown its present quarters. Another committee was appointed to look around for new quarters, and ascertain what it would cost to fit them up. They will also canvass for funds.

Art Notice.

A Meeting of Dissatisfied Republicans.

At a meeting held in this city by some of the supporters of the candidates defeated in the county convention, it was resolved; that they would not support any candidate for office, whose wife or daughter did not have her hair cutting, shampooing and hair dressing done at the Eastern hair store, 405 Twelfth street, between Broadway and Franklin. As these bolters hold the balance of power in this county, it would be wise for all candidates to consult their wishes.

The Introduction of Game Birds.

A recent report of the Department of Agriculture gives some interesting particulars concerning the Mongolian pheasants, introduced some years ago in Oregon, and now become plenty in parts of that State. As it has been proposed to propagate these birds in California it is worth while to inquire how they are regarded in Oregon. The testimony is not altogether favorable. Dr. F. S. Matteson writes from Aumsville, Marion county, Or., under date of January 22, 1889:

The bird in question was sent here from China by Hon. O. N. Denny, American minister to that country, some seven years ago. There were two importations, one of which I did not see, but I think there were fifteen or twenty hens, with a less number of males. Now they are plentiful in most parts of the Willamette Valley, but I am not informed that they have as yet passed outside of it. They are more a bird of open ground than the native pheasant. They seek brush and timber for shelter when flushed, but will not "tree" for a dog. They usually make a loud cackling noise when flushed. They lie close, and run and hide with remarkable dexterity, and are a hard bird to get. This pheasant is well adapted to take care of himself is increasing fast, and has evidently come to stay. He is voted a nuisance by the farmer, and I am afraid his introduction will prove a calamity to the country, whatever he may be to the sportsman. He is a vigorous fighter, and there are many reports of his going through the farmers' roosters. Cases are reported of his crossing with the hens. He is destructive in gardens, and in patches of berries and small fruits. I am of the opinion that he robs the nests of other birds. The quail have nearly disappeared in this locality since his advent, and I think he is to blame. He is pretty good eating, about like our native pheasant, but I am inclined to regard him as a gaudily painted deception and a fraud. But we have got him, and our State law for his protection has yet four years to run. Happily, however, it is fast becoming "more honored in the breach than in the observance." That he will overrun the United States, at least all but the heavily timbered portions of it, I have no doubt. All the plains country and untimbered hills and mountains between this coast and the Atlantic are adapted to him, especially the more southern parts, and I see nothing to prevent him spreading himself. The State that protects him will make a grave error, for he is of no use except as a "game bird," and will crowd out many other useful kinds. He "roosts" on the ground, hiding in grass or weeds. The hen lays on the ground, from twelve to eighteen eggs at a clutch, and raises two and sometimes three broods in a season.

These birds were protected by a State law, still, we believe, in force, which made it unlawful to kill them, but since they have become so plenty, the law has been generally disregarded. The fact is, the bird seems to need but little, if any protection, and appears to be unusually well able to take care of himself. We do not apprehend, however, that he would ever become excessively numerous in the neighborhood of the California pothunter. The males weigh about five pounds and the female four pounds. Their flesh is tender and not unlike that of a chicken.

In the same report some account is given of an experiment made by Creed Haymond on his farm, in San Mateo county. Colonel Haymond and some of his neighbors, have experimented in raising English pheasants, but with very indifferent success. When the birds are turned out they suddenly disappear, and nothing is seen or heard of them again. A similar fate appears to have attended a flock of English pheasants, turned out some years ago in the Santa Cruz mountains. It is certain that so far the English pheasant is not a success in California.

THE San Francisco dailies yesterday all contained long telegraphic accounts by cable from London of a "midnight horror" that occurred near Kimberly, South Africa, a circus being turned loose during the night by a discharged employe and the animals taking possession of the town. The matter, which is telegraphed from London, under date of September 17th, is an old story. The occurrence referred to occurred in May last and went the round of weekly papers and magazines, both in American and England a couple of months ago, after which it was shelved and forgotten until now revived by some faking London correspondent of the New York dailies.

COLONEL H. H. MARKHAM will be in Oakland tomorrow night, and every Republican is expected to do his duty by turning out to bid him welcome. With a harmonious party in Alameda county we should be able to recover the honor of being the banner Republican county of California, and by turning out in full force tomorrow night we will give Colonel Markham earnest of our intentions in that regard.

THE story of the royal jag in which Prince George of Wales engaged in Montreal, and the subsequent proceedings to hush it up, is amusing enough. The acute mental anguish of his royal grandmother over the publication of the princely escapade is now being appeased by a bogus prosecution of the impertinent person who told the story.

THE action of Balfour in arresting Dillon and O'Brien for the purpose of stopping their American tour to relieve the starving people of Ireland is likely to have the very opposite effect from what he intended. Instead of embarrassing the Irish cause it will give it a new and tremendous impetus.

A New Form of Bunco.

The Farmers' Alliance wave has just touched California, but it is certain that it will rise to a high level in the near future. One of the paid organizers of the Alliance is at work in the State. He has laid a foundation in the San Joaquin valley counties, and on Wednesday last he organized a strong sub-alliance at San Jose. These lecturers or organizers are sent out from a central bureau at Washington, which distributes quantities of "literature," and is supported by assessments on the sub-alliances and subscriptions to the organ of the order. A Southern Congressman, who had taken some pains to investigate the workings of the bureau and the order, told a New York Tribune reporter that in its present state the movement is nothing more or less than a huge money-making scheme, run by a lot of adventurers. He explained:

"The official organ which is published by these fellows will bring in about $75,000. The revenues derived from the establishment of sub-alliances are great. All this money is handled by these men, who receive large salaries. What they do with it, I don't know, but their antecedents are strongly against their making a proper accounting of it. I suppose, of course, the money they get from the paper must be theirs. But the popularity of the paper was gained through the indorsement of the Farmers' Alliance, whose members were induced to pledge themselves to take 100,000 copies of it annually.

The expenses of the lecturers sent out from Washington are paid by the people whom they enlighten or bewilder with their absurd schemes of sub treasuries for the storing of agricultural produce as a foundation for a new variety of currency. The whole movement is simply a political disease of an epidemic type. California is certain to have it, and the only thing to be done is to let it wear itself out like the measles. If the farmers are minded to pay out good money to support a set of loafers at Washington, on the strength of alluring promises impossible of fulfilment, that is their affair, but, in fact, the business as conducted is only a new form of bunco.

Poor old Boucicault is dead. He had his faults, but these will be forgotten in the remembrance of the intellectual pleasure which he afforded two generations of playgoers. He was by far the greatest of the English dramatists of the century.

CURRENT POLITICS.

Clara Foltz wants to stump the State for the Democratic ticket.

The Republicans of Humboldt County have nominated A. J. Bledsoe and P. F. Hart for the Assembly.

Senator Stanford will soon return from Europe and will take part in the campaign in this State, speaking in four of the principal cities.

Representative De Haven has sent in his resignation to Governor Waterman. He said yesterday to a correspondent: "My resignation will enable the people of my district to elect another member at the coming election to succeed me, and as I am a candidate for the Supreme Bench it would be necessary for me to resign at that time."

At a meeting of Republicans held in San Francisco, to hear Colonel Markham, the following telegram from Speaker Reed was read: "Maine has raised the banner of Republicanism very high, yet we expect California will not let it be lowered. Republicanism and business principles mean a great future for the great State of California, the richest land under the sun."

The Tariff Conference Committee, to adjust the differences between the Senate and the House, includes the name of Hon. Joseph McKenna of this district. Such a distinction would not be conferred on any other than a valued legislator. There is no man in the House of Representatives today that stands higher as a public man than Joseph McKenna. Many people think the whole duty of a member of Congress is to secure some special recognition of his district, some appropriation for disbursement in his own locality. This is all well enough, but we like to see men there who can be considered statesmen, and recognized as such. In Joseph McKenna we have a man of this order. McKenna is a pronounced reciprocity advocate, and belongs to the Blaine school. There is other work for a statesman than securing Federal patronage for individuals, or appropriation for localities. As for appropriations, McKenna has made his district particularly favored in that line.—Sacramento Bee.

The lots at auction tomorrow, on line of Piedmont cable road, are on high ground and command an elegant view.

Home for the Adult Blind.

At the meeting of the Directors of the Home for the Adult Blind last Wednesday evening the Superintendent reported two inmates admitted in August and that four more would be admitted during this month. The board referred the matter of purchasing broom corn to the President and Superintendent. The contract for manufacturing material was awarded to three firms: Armes & Dallam of San Francisco, Sonnger Bros. of Oakland and to J. N. Hubbard of Chicago.

Gratifying to All.

The high position attained and the universal acceptance and approval of the pleasant liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs, as the most excellent laxative known, illustrate the value of the qualities on which its success is based and are abundantly gratifying to the California Fig Syrup Company.

NOW IS THE TIME TO INVEST.

J. W. Laymance Gives His Views on Piedmont Property.

No Reason in the World Why Every Man Should Not Own His Own Home and Leave It to His Children.

To the Editor of the Tribune—SIR: Although it has occurred to me of the many people in our beautiful city who are paying rent, who have no home of their own and are making no effort whatever to buy one, laying no foundation of the wage-earned money for the future welfare of themselves and their children, and that they can easily have a place, be it ever so small, that they can call "our own," and in reality be their own.

Now, there is not a spot on the globe, in my opinion, where there are so many beautiful locations for homes as there is in our lovely city of Oakland. Yet there are hundreds, I dare say thousands, of clerks and working-people today in this fine city who are receiving good wages for their labor, and with all the inducements held out by the real estate firms of this city, never put aside a cent toward buying them a home.

I will say here, that I believe there is not a city on the Coast today of the same number of inhabitants that Oakland has, that affords to the working class of people a better and safer investment than here.

I remember three years ago a poor woman came to my office and wanted to buy a lot on which she could make a small payment down and the balance in monthly payments. She told me her husband was a hard working man, but when he received his pay he generally managed to spend a greater portion of it before it reached her hands, and she finally concluded that, by undertaking to buy a piece of property on the installment plan, he would be more economical and pay for the same.

I knew just how to fix this poor lady who wanted a home, with a lot. I sold her one for $600, she paying $100 cash and the remainder was to be at $10 per month. A few months rolled by and she would call regularly and make her monthly payments and always told me that Jim, that was her husband's name, was as eager to know that the installments were paid as she was.

Some little time after that, a gentleman called in my office in search of vacant property, I was showing him property in this same neighborhood and he seized upon this particular lot, saying if he could get it at a reasonable figure he would buy it. I told him that I had recently sold the lot, but that he might buy that particular piece at an advance. Before leaving the spot he offered $800 and pay the commission. I knew this would be good news for my poor old lady and her Jim, as they were making $200 clear in a little over six months' time. So I made haste with the offer, and of course it was accepted. After the proper papers were transferred and the money paid it gave the old lady a capital of about $400, as they had more than paid their regular installments, and they were ready to make another purchase.

I next sold them a small cottage house of five rooms for $1850—$400 cash, and the balance at $17 50 per month—and only a few days ago I met the old lady, and she said they never were happier in their lives. They will soon have their home paid for, and will feel that independence in life that no one can appreciate until he has had his own home, and can say that it is his and he owes no man a cent.

Now, my dear friend, that is only one instance. Thousands of others of the same kind could be told. Now those who are receiving wages and are spending it as fast as you can make it, why not invest a few dollars every month in a lot. Buy in a growing locality. You cannot miss it, as there are many chances in real estate that are open for investment. In fact, I know of no better opportunity today than investing along the line of the Piedmont Cable. Property is offered low and on very easy terms, and it will unquestionably double in value in a year or so. Investments of this kind are far better than to put your small earnings in a savings bank.

You take the wealthy of to-day and the majority, yea the whole, have made their fortunes in real estate. The easy terms upon which property is being sold in this city surpasses any other city on the continent. I do not know and I do not believe you can name a city where property lies so close the business center of the city as property does here, that is sold on easy terms.

Never before in the history of Oakland has any improvement been made in this city that has affected the value of property so much as has the Piedmont Cable Line leading through our principal business streets out to Piedmont Heights. Go where you may, from the beginning to the end of the road, and property has advanced within the past three months 50 to 100 per cent over the preceding three months, more especially outside of the city limits. Lots of 50 feet front by a depth of 125 and 150 feet that could have been purchased six months ago for $500 and $600 each are held and being sold today from $1000 to $1500 a lot, and it is conceded by most all of the conservative real estate dealers that property outside of the city limits at the last named figures is only a beginning of prices that this property will be sold for inside of one year. As a residence portion there is no property in the suburbs of the city of Oakland that compares with the property along the line of the Piedmont cable. Among some of the special offerings of property in this direction at low prices and for sale on easy terms is the Piedmont Cable Tract, which is subdivided into large lots, 50x150 and 100x225, commanding a fine view, yet sheltered from the bay winds. The prices of property in this tract range from $500 to $800 a lot, or $10 to $15 a front foot, being the cheapest property offered in this direction. The terms are easy, within the reach of everyone; only $100 cash is required as first payment and the remainder at $100 every six months, so there is no excuse for anyone not having a home of his own in this beautiful and coming residence portion of Oakland. Beautiful residences are beginning to be built in this direction, and we predict, before two years dawn upon us, that the beautiful hills that lie between our fair city and Piedmont Heights will be covered with palatial residences, and that portion will be designated as the Nob Hill of Oakland.

Very truly,
J. W. LAYMANCE.

LEFT PENNILESS.

Mrs. Smith Causes Coal-dealer Eddy's Arrest for Petit Larceny.

On Saturday night Mrs. Mary Smith was paid $20 as wages for working as servant for a month in the house of a German family. With her clothes and the money in her hand she started down Adeline street, and says that at the corner of Seventh she was accosted by W. E. S. Eddy, who is partner in a coal yard on Cypress street, between Sixth and Seventh streets. She asserts that he proposed a drink and they went together to a saloon near by and before they left had several glasses of beer and whiskey. She says she gave the bartender her money to keep for her as he handed her a receipt which she placed in her pocket, after which she departed with Eddy.

It is charged that a short time afterward Eddy returned with the card and demanded the money, which was given him, but long after he had gone Mrs. Smith came in and disavowed having given Eddy the authority. She was left penniless by the proceeding, and as Eddy, on being hunted up, claimed to know nothing about it, she called at the police station this morning and preferred a charge of petty larceny against him. He was arrested on a warrant this afternoon.

Turned Out to Die.

Secretary Theobald of the Humane Society, the day before yesterday, found on a vacant lot a horse belonging to Joseph Drathmann of Fruit Vale. The poor animal had been turned out to die, and was lying down, being too weak to stand. Mr. Theobald killed the horse and arrested Mr. Drathmann, who was brought before Justice Matthews, yesterday, and charged with cruelty to animals. The case was postponed.

IT WILL MARK AN EPOCH.

Tomorrow Will Show the Effect of Cable Roads on Values.

The Great Hamilton Tract Sale Offers the Finest Inducements of Any Auction Yet Held This Year.

At 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon William J. Dingee will sell at public auction on the grounds the beautiful Hamilton tract, recently divided into thirty-eight fine lots. There is no more advantageously situated property anywhere in or about Oakland. The new cable road passes right by it, bringing it within eight minutes' communication with the broad-gauge trains and five minutes' of the narrow-gauge and the business center of the city.

It is on the first rise of land north of the western arm of the lake. This gives it unsurpassed scenic advantages. It overlooks the lake, the city, the bay and the entire westward slope of the hills. Its elevation affords a perfect sewerage grade, and arrangements have been completed to connect its sewers directly with the Main Lake sewer. The mains of the Contra Costa Water Company have already been laid in Hamilton Place.

The thirty-eight lots have frontages varying from 30 to 75 feet and are from 90 to 223 feet in depth. To the north is the fine residence and beautiful grounds of W. C. B. de Fremery. Adjoining the tract on the south are the shady lawns and the gardens surrounding the home of Mrs. Edson Adams. To the eastward, across the cable track, are the mansions of Thomas Ewing, Orestes Pierce, John L. Howard, Lloyd Baldwin, W. A. Rouse and Ex-Governor George C. Perkins. As a consequence, the tract has all possible neighborhood and society advantages.

Hamilton Place, which extends from the cable track on Oakland avenue has been graded on easy lines, and cement sidewalks have been laid on both sides of it, so the lots are all prepared to be built upon at once.

The terms are only one-fifth cash, with the remainder in four equal annual installments. Interest at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum is to be paid monthly on deferred payments. These terms place the lots within the reach of people of moderate means.

The property is absolutely certain to double in value within a year. The influence of the building of the splendidly equipped cable road will be felt more and more, and this property, so near the heart of the city, will be the first to feel the impetus given to values. The sale offers the opportunity of a lifetime to speculators, investors and home seekers.

It is confidently expected that the sale will be the first indication of the splendid prosperity coming to the lands tapped by the new cable road.

A BRUTAL RIDER.

A Negro Arrested For Cruel Treatment of a Horse.

Secretary Theobald of the Humane Society, yesterday afternoon arrested on Twentieth street and San Pablo avenue, a negro named Thomas White, for ill treating a horse. White, who was drunk, had been riding the animal hard all day, and as it was an unshod colt, its feet were in a pitiable condition. He had also beaten the young animal savagely with a loaded whip and its flanks were bleeding, the flesh being cut out in several places.

White was arraigned this morning and pleaded not guilty. His examination was set for the 2[illegible] inst.

He Was a Stranger.

Yesterday Louis Lundberg of this city fell among thieves at Sacramento. The Record-Union says he lost $80 by being "taken in" by a greenback swindle in operation on Fourth street. He swore to a complaint charging the operator with grand larceny, and a warrant was issued for his arrest. Lundberg claims that the operator offered him six or seven packages for $80 and told him he would return his money if there was not that amount in greenbacks in the packages. Lundberg opened each paper and found two $1 notes in them.

A Tartar Chief in Court.

Mr. Kowalsky declined to prosecute Quong Mow, the Tartar Chief who was arrested on a charge of assaulting him with a hatchet, so the defendant was dismissed from custody this morning. Quong left the dock with an expansive smile on his face, and as he walked through the courtroom to the door he made everyone else smile too, for he was fearfully and strangely attired. His blue overalls were arranged a la Washington, and his suspenders were ingeniously worn outside his coat, reaching the buttons by means of perforations in his garments.

FOR THE LIBERAL FAITH.

Unitarian Church and College to be Established at Berkeley.

At the final session of the Unitarian Conference in San Francisco yesterday, there was a lively discussion of the report of the Committee on Theological education, offered by its chairman, Rev. C. W. Wendte of this city. The report strongly advocated the planting of a training school for liberal ministers at Berkeley, and pointed out that by availing itself of the educational facilities offered by the State University to all students without cost, it would be necessary only to add two or three resident theological professors and supplementary lectures by the settled Unitarian clergy of the coast.

Rev. Dr. Stebbins was inclined to look on the scheme as a useless expenditure of effort and money. He favored sending their students to the Presbyterian and Congregational schools already established, or enabling them to go to Eastern institutions. They needed the Eastern atmosphere of thought and life. Rev. Mr. Wendte asked the Doctor how, as a Regent of the California State University, he could advise young men to pursue their studies at Eastern institutions, and, furthermore, thought no Unitarian could enter a Presbyterian theological school without perjuring himself. To this the doctor, however, would not agree.

A resolution, offered by President Horace Davis, and supported by him in an earnest speech, was finally adopted by an unanimous vote. It gives cordial endorsement to the proposed school at Berkeley, and calls for the immediate establishment in Berkeley of a Unitarian Society. The pastor of this society is to be chosen for his pulpit ability and scholarship, and is to be sustained by the American Unitarian Association. This central organization of the body already maintains preachers of ability at Ann Arbor, Ithaca (Cornell University), and Madison, Wis., and is understood to be ready to do so at Berkeley. This clergyman is to be also the first professor in the projected school.

For the second professorship the sum of $1400, annually for five years, was reported as already raised, with other financial encouragement.

Correspondence has already been opened with scholars of eminence in the Unitarian body, and while the establishment of the proposed school may be delayed, it is looked upon by those best informed as inevitable. Rev. M. Wendte, Rev. J. L. Eliot of Portland, Oregon, and Rev. Thomas Van Ness, are a committee to look after the matter. The last named gentleman left for the East yesterday evening to present the matter of the church at Berkeley to the denominational authorities and to arrange also for the establishment of a Second Unitarian Church in San Francisco.

THE NATIONALISTS.

Interesting Meeting and a Programme of Music, Poetry and Political Economy.

The Nationalist Club met last evening at Elite Hall. After the election of Mr. Dutton as Chairman, Mr. Hoenish as Secretary, a communication was read from Rev. Father McSweeney, asking that the club hold its meeting in California Hall for a few weeks, as the Catholics of his parish were to hold a fair in Elite Hall which would last several weeks. The request was granted.

An interesting programme was then rendered, consisting of a piano duet by the Misses Krause; a poem, "The Bond Holder and the Orphan," written by Mrs. L. E. Drink and read by Mrs. R. A. Loomis; banjo solo by Miss Daisy Wendell, and an address by J. G. Chestnut.

Out of the Depths—Of the Past.

F. L. Holden and Alfred Brackett picked up a bottle on the bay shore, near Sixteenth street station yesterday afternoon, in which was the following note:

Kate: I am in the water. The ship is sinking. Roy.

The writing is almost defaced and appeared to have been written with the blunt end of a stick. The letter is evidently a hoax and was thrown in the water by somebody who wanted to work the old, old, old joke.

Grape picking is fairly under way, about a carload being sent each day. The yield is better than usual. Mr. Mayhew's hill vineyard is one of the sights in Niles and the vines are loaded with the choicest of table grapes.

Mr. Snyder is improving very rapidly. No clew has been obtained to the burglars yet, in spite of the $250 reward. The burglars have taken Mr. Snyder's safe keys. Locksmiths came up from San Francisco on Saturday to force the lock.

W. W. Stockton of Farwell's Quarry, reports having caught and eaten a 28-inch salmon trout last week in Stony Brook. Other fishermen also report fine catches this season. Sportsmen hope that the law will be strictly enforced in regard to fishing in these streams, as they are well stocked with young trout now, and in time will have a good stock for all.

Epoch.

The transition from long, lingering and painful sickness to robust health marks an epoch in the life of the individual. Such a remarkable event is treasured in the memory and the agency whereby the good health has been attained is greatfully blessed. Hence it is that so much is heard in praise of Electric Bitters. So many feel they owe their restoration to health, to the use of the Great Alterative and Tonic. If you are troubled with any disease of Kidneys, Liver or Stomach, of long or short standing, you will surely find relief by use of Electric Bitters. THE LEVY AGREED ON.

The City Will Want $1 05 Altogether. More Estimates Cut.

The Finance Committee of the Council continued its work of cutting down the estimates last night, and on opening session took up the demands of the Fire Department. These they pruned considerably, reducing the estimate for gas from $546 to $400; for repairs to engine houses from $1200 to $700; for repairs to Fifteenth street house from $1000 to $250; for rent for quarters for chemical engine No. 1 from $2294 to $2044. An attempt was also made to cut the estimate for erecting hydrants, but Messrs Kirk and Macdonald and Chief Kennedy made such a hot fight against the proposition that it was passed by.

The school salary estimates were next considered and Messrs. Macdonald and Collins wanted to have them reduced, but lost their fight, for Messrs. Kirk, Wakefield and Earl stood solidly for leaving the fund untouched.

The question of how much the levy should be was also considered, and Mr. Evans favored an increase. He figured out that by making a 10 cent levy for the Bond Redemption fund it would be raised from $34,000 to $39,000, and that all ordinary expenses could be fixed by a 95 cent levy. This proposition pleased the committee. So they voted in favor of it and then adjourned.

TO THE ISLES OF THE SEA.

The Missionary Schooner Logan to Carry the Message to the Heathen.

Next Tuesday it is expected that the Robert W. Logan will sail for the Sandwich Islands. This vessel is a new one just built by the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions for missionary service in and about the Caroline Islands. She will be in charge of Captain Henry H. Worth and Captain Isaiah Bray, Secretary of Oakland Young Men's Christian Association. Captain Bray was formerly commander of the missionary vessel Morning Star, and will be the pilot for the Robert W. Logan to Honolulu.

Arthur H. Breed and Arthur Alexander, of Oakland, Messrs. Heath and Dodge, of Santa Cruz, and Charles M. Campbell, of Sacramento, are among those to sail on the new vessel to the Hawaiian Islands. They propose visiting the port of Hilo and the famous volcano of Kilauea, some of the larger sugar plantations, and many places of interest on the islands between Hilo and Honolulu. After spending a week or ten days visiting in Honolulu the party, including Captain Bray, will return home by steamer, and the Robert W. Logan will continue her trip to the Caroline Islands.

PLUMM EXONERATED.

A Coroner's Jury Say He Was Not Responsible for Coffey's Death.

Last night Coroner Evers held an inquest on the remains of John Coffey, the young man who was killed by a blow from a stone thrown by a stranger while in a saloon at the foot of Webster street. Dr. Leger and the man's companions at the time all testified. The facts developed were the same as those published in last night's TRIBUNE. The jury rendered a verdict as follows:

"That the deceased, John Coffey, met his death from inflammation of the brain, caused by a wound inflicted by a stone thrown by some person to this jury unknown, and exonerating Frank Plumm from all blame."

Plumm is the companion of Coffey, who was accused of manslaughter yesterday and arrested on suspicion of having had something to do with the case.

NATURAL GAS.

Roaring Wells North of Lake Merritt—Gas in Abundance.

The wildest kind of excitement has created north of Oakland by discovery of natural gas in abundance on one of the ranches north of Lake Merritt. The gas vein was discovered while a farmer was boring an artesian well on his property, and when ignited the flame is over 80 feet high and burns with a roar that can be heard for miles. The well has been plugged and a number of others are being bored by way of experiment. Yesterday when the news reached Oakland a rush was made for the field and never since the gold excitement has there been such an exodus. This afternoon the neighborhood of the well resembles a tented army field and hundreds of derricks have been erected already in hopes of striking gas in large quantity. Geologists who have examined the ground say it abounds in petroleum and no doubt the discovery is a valuable one.

To-day thirty more men with their families went to the head of Lake Merritt and the People's Express and Transfer Company is having a busy day attending to their moving. Besides their general express and transfer business they make a specialty of checking baggage at your home to all parts of the world. Parties desiring to go to the new gas wells can summon a wagon through telephone 326, or at the office 423 Tenth street. A new well will be fired to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF!

Since our Grand Display of Fall and Winter Styles to the appreciative public of San Francisco, we have been kept on the jump with business from early morn till late at night. We pride ourselves more than ever this season upon our Fall and Winter Display of SUITS and OVERCOATS. We seem to have struck the popular fancy on styles and patterns. They are the production of Careful Selections, Superior Workmanship and Honest Material, manufactured by us, by the Most Artistic Designers and Cutters on this continent. Good Quality and Low Prices make our goods attractive, and they are commencing to desert our high piled counters as though they were swept by a mighty cyclone. It matters not what price Suit or Overcoat you want, we can please you, and satisfy the best dressers.
